Harney County Veterinary Clinic is a mixed animal practice in rural eastern Oregon. We are the only veterinary clinic in Burns, Oregon, as well as Harney County. We are a true 50/50 practice! Our small animal side includes everything from dog and cat general medicine and surgery, to orthopedics and obstetrics. We also see wildlife and the occasional exotic. Large animal is ~90-95% cattle (primarily cow/calf); we do see horses, llamas, sheep, goats, and pigs as well. Herdwork is heaviest from September through December; most calving starts in February and tapers off in April.

Our practice was established over 32 years ago and came under new management June 2008. We are a very busy clinic! It would be a great opportunity to experience a true mixed animal practice and all that a small town has to offer. The community is friendly and the High Desert country is beautiful - which makes every house and ranch call memorable! While interning or externing in Burns, room and board will be provided.
