This summer experience was vastly different from other camps in the sense that it covers not just what a vet does but the various things that are possible when going into vet med. The other thing that stood out about this program was that unlike a camp where you stay on a campground, the students stayed in actual college dorms and were able to eat and participate in college activities. This camp allowed us to be college students for the week that we were there.

The thing that I will remember most from this experience is how this camp gave us what other camps couldn't: We were able to actually do hands-on things. Due to the fact that we were at the vet school that allowed us to do things that we couldn't have otherwise. Also having the mentors actually be students from the vet school helped us when we had questions about college and getting into schools. I will remember all the activities we did that have helped me open up and become a better person.

After attending the summer veterinary experience I find myself thinking more and more about a career in vet med. I have heard about the possibilities and different things that you can do with vet med but after this camp I feel like I have actually submerged myself in the world of vet med.
