The American Veterinary Medical Foundation's Grants and Awards Scholarship subcommittee selected the following students to receive the Zoetis Animal Health Veterinary Student Scholarship. The subcommittee based its decision on academic excellence, leadership, diversity, and potential to contribute to the sustainability of the veterinary profession.

SAVMA Alternative Experiences in Veterinary Medicine Scholarship

Recipients

Class of 2023

Anya Britvan

Class of 2022

Siria Cruz

These awards are intended for students interested in sharing their experiences and future career goals in non-traditional areas of the veterinary profession. Interest in wildlife, zoo and aquarium medicine, exotic and pocket pet medicine, lab animal medicine, research, disaster relief, international veterinary care, veterinary education, mental health and wellness, and various other areas of veterinary medicine is the focus of these awards.

Graduate Student Research Award

Recipient Manoj Gurung

This award is to recognize a graduate student demonstrating excellence in research. Manoj's primary research interest is deciphering the role of gut microbiota in Type 2 Diabetes (T2D) and develop the microbiota-based therapeutics for such chronic conditions along with the commercialization of such products.

Outstanding House Officer Award

Recipient Lea Mehrkens

To recognize one House Officer, elected, by voting of the senior class, as outstanding in their contributions of time and expertise as a teacher and mentor.

Comments:

- She is so positive and encouraging and really gets you thinking through problems critically
- Dr. Mehrkens is an excellent resident. She leads by example, and takes every opportunity to involve and teach students. She also cares about students beyond the realm of academia. She is a superior example of the many wonderful house officers throughout the hospital.

Outstanding Resident Award

Recipient

Bharadhwaj Ranganathan

To recognize one resident, as outstanding in their performance in a clinical setting, excellence in teaching and research, and overall collegiality.

“Dr. Ranganathan is a true triple threat in our veterinary school. He is clinically outstanding, has high research productivity, and teaches the students well, all while showing collegiality and respect to faculty, technicians and staff, students, fellow house officers and clients. “

New Investigator Award

Recipient Katy Townsend

The New Investigator Award recognizes the research potential of an early-career faculty member who is making good progress toward establishing a research program with an international reputation for excellence.

Dr. Katy Townsend received her Veterinary Degree from The University of Sydney, graduating with honors in 2004. After completing a small animal internship and research fellowship, she then undertook a small animal surgery residency combined with a Masters of Comparative Science at The Ohio State University, and became a Diplomate of the American College of Veterinary Surgeons in 2013. She joined Oregon State University in 2014 as an Assistant Professor in small animal surgery, with clinical and research focus on surgical oncology, sentinel lymph node mapping and using animal models for implant design and testing.

Zoetis Research Excellence Award

Recipient Brian Dolan

The Zoetis Award for Research Excellence fosters innovative research by recognizing outstanding research effort and productivity.

Dr. Dolan's research program is focused on two main areas. The first is the biology of antigen presentation, the process by which the cells of the body alert the adaptive immune system to the presence of intracellular pathogens, such as viruses, or oncogenic transformation. The second is the study of immune responses in wild animal populations as it relates to disease spread. His goal is to develop a variety of assays that can be used by researchers in the field to determine the relative immune status of animals depending on their environment and interactions with each other.

The Zoetis logo, featuring the word "zoetis" in a stylized, lowercase, orange font. The "z" is particularly large and has a unique shape. A small "TM" trademark symbol is located at the end of the word.

CCVM Excellence in Teaching Awards

Recipients

Joe Klopfenstein
Justin Sanders
Jamie Sona

John Schlipf
Sean Spagnoli
Hadi Mansouri

The CCVM Excellence in Teaching Award is given to the top two faculty members nominated by each of the four classes for their excellence in teaching.

Zoetis Distinguished Teacher Award

Recipient Erica McKenzie

This award recognizes faculty excellence in teaching. The purpose of the award is to improve Veterinary Medical education by recognizing outstanding instructors who, through their teaching, dedication, and leadership, contribute significantly to the advancement of the profession.

Comments from students:

- Dr. McKenzie always goes above and beyond to make sure that students are getting the best possible learning experience.
- Incredibly approachable and knowledgeable. Teaches large animal medicine in a way that crosses disciplines and focus tracks.
- Her compassion for students as well as her passion for teaching has really made me excited to learn from her.

Thank you to the CCVM Honors, Awards, and Scholarships Committee for their dedication and hard work:
